Your are invited to read along with the Fall 2023 Common Reader for FWS 101: What the Eyes Don't See: A Story of Crisis, Resistance, and Hope in an American City. See the associated image for our reading schedule!

A poster for 'Cottey College FIRST-YEAR WRITING SEMINAR 2023 Special Events'. It lists two events: 'FILMS FOR CHANGEMAKERS' on Wednesday, September 6, 7:30 PM or Thursday, September 7, 11:00 AM, and 'WE WHO WOW' on Wednesday, October 18, 7:30 PM. The text describes these as opportunities to view documentaries, participate in discussions, and attend a live webinar. At the bottom, it says 'MARK YOUR CALENDAR! MORE INFO COMING SOON FROM YOUR FWS 101 INSTRUCTOR' and 'COTTEY.EDU/FIRST-YEAR-WRITING-SEMINAR/'.

As an fyi to faculty and staff: students enrolled in FWS 101 (First-Year Writing Seminar) will be attending two special events this semester that take place outside of class time. If students are engaged in other Cottey commitments, they need to make advance, alternative arrangements with their FWS 101 instructor. Please contact Dr. Sarah Polo (spolo@cottey.edu) with questions or concerns.

Theatre major, Taylor Jordan, will present a one night only concert on September 15th at 7:30 p.m. in the Haidee and Allen Wild Center Auditorium. Taylor is a 4th year student who will graduate this May with her BA in theatre. She has ambitions of being a music performer when she graduates. This concert is her debut with her new band "Taylor Deraynged." This concert is produced by the theatre department and will help raise funds for our participation in The American College Theater Festival in Des Moines, in late January.

Cotley Faculty, Staff and Students are free. Donations accepted. Community members are $10 for adults and $7 for students and seniors.
