Jordan Johnson

Jordan Johnson's article, "Angelina in the Archives: Tracing Heteropatriarchy and Settler Colonialism in Local Histories of the Pineywoods" is now available through Frontiers: A Journal of Women Studies

The article examines early modern colonial accounts alongside more contemporary paintings, murals, and narratives to understand the role of a Caddo woman known as Angelina within settler discourses of place and belonging, demonstrating how settler storytelling practices comprehend Angelina according to heteropatriarchal norms of gender and sexuality while framing colonization within a teleological narrative of US history.

Carol Clyde

Dr. Carol Clyde has been elected President of the Executive Leadership Team (ELT) for the Women and Leadership Member Community of the International Leadership Association (ILA).

The Women and Leadership Community and its ELT are international in scope, representing members across multiple continents who are engaged in advancing scholarship, practice, and dialogue related to women and leadership worldwide. In this role, Dr. Clyde and the ELT will work to support collaboration, learning, and inclusive leadership development across global contexts.

This appointment marks the culmination of her involvement with the Women and Leadership Member Community since her election as a member in 2019. She looks forward to serving the community and continuing to strengthen its global impact within and beyond the ILA.
